INFORMATION ABOUT THE MAJOR SHAREHOLDING NOTIFICATION

In this view, specify the type of instrument, for example a share (ISIN is optional) and the nature of the change.

NOTE! Information listed under the headings “Shares” and “Voting rights” is specific to the holding of shares and certificates. In other words, this information does not apply to any holdings in other categories of instruments (the definitions of the categories are found at the bottom of the page; see the next picture).

Then specify the date of the change and the threshold that was reached or passed (upward or downward).

This table shows the resulting distribution of the holdings in the issuer. The first line shows the percentage of the total outstanding voting rights, per category. The second line shows the total number of shares (or underlying shares), per category. The holding of shares and certificates does not need to be filled in manually here since this information is generated from the information specified in the previous picture.

In this specific example, the notifier sold shares and thus fell below the threshold of 5% of voting rights and the number of shares through a change in the aggregate holding in the three instrument categories (→ 4.9%). Note that the threshold does not necessarily need to have been reached or passed (upward or downward) via aggregation of the holdings in the various categories; it is also relevant to consider the holdings in the categories separately.

Other appropriate information stipulated by law, for example exercise period, duration, and maturity date for derivative instruments (for more guidelines see FFFS 2007:17, sections 10–11), is specified in the Comment field, along with any other comments you would like to include in the notification. Enter the contact details.
