RISK FACTORS

A number of risk factors and uncertainties may adversely affect the Issuer and the Group. These risk factors include, but are not limited to, financial risks, technical risks, risks related to the business operations of the Group, environmental and regulatory risks. If any of these or other risks or uncertainties actually occurs, the business, operating results and financial position of the Group could be materially and adversely affected, which could have a material adverse effect on the Group's ability to meet its obligations (including payment of interest and repayment of principal) under the terms and conditions of the Bonds (the "Terms and Conditions"). The risk factors are not ranked by probability, significance or their potential impact on the Bonds or the Issuer, the Group's business, results or financial condition, and no claim is made that this list is exhaustive. Consequently, additional risk factors that are currently unknown or that are not considered to be significant for the moment could also significantly affect the Issuer's and Group's business, results or financial condition. The value of an investment in the Bonds may be substantially affected if any of the risk factors set out below materialise. Investors are therefore encouraged to carry out their own assessment of the significance of the risk factors set out below and other potential risk factors for the Issuer's and the Group's business and future development. The risk factors should be considered in conjunction with other information contained in this Investor Presentation.

Risks relating to the Group's business and industry

Macroeconomic factors

The real estate industry is affected to a considerable extent by macroeconomic factors such as the general economic climate, regional economic development, access to properties, fluctuations in employment, production rate for new housing, hotels, other residential properties and premises, changes in infrastructure, population growth, population structure, inflation, interest rates, etc. If the progress of one or more of these factors were to be detrimental, it could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

Market disruptions, particularly in the Nordic property market, changes in the real interest rate or economic downturns in the global market may affect the financial condition of the Group's customers and thus affect their ability to enter into agreements with the Group. Such events can also mean that the terms of the Group's cooperation with its suppliers, such as construction companies, may become unfavorable for the Group, for example, if suppliers become more price sensitive and more inclined towards procedures. Changes in the market can also affect the supply of contractors. A reduction in the number of available contractors, for example due to increased demand from the Group's competitors, could mean that the Group is unable to engage contractors to the extent required to implement the Group's projects.

The current low level of interest rates has improved the ability of both households and purchasers of the Group's rental projects to obtain loan financing at nominally low interest rates. If the interest rate were to increase, households or purchasers of the Group's rental projects would be unable to obtain loan financing at the same nominally low interest rates. Since changes in interest rates affect the ability of households and purchasers of the Group's rental projects to pay for housing and properties, such a situation could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

Downturns in the global economy or other market disruptions, a deterioration in liquidity in the Swedish housing, hotel or residential property market or lower demand for the Group's products or services could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

The ability of the Group to find a market for properties

The Group develops new housing, including rental apartments, tenant-owned apartments, residential care facilities, hotels and student housing, in attractive locations in Sweden's growth locations and large cities. The Group is dependent on its ability to sell these properties, either as rental properties, residential care facilities, hotels, student housing or as individual tenant-owned apartments. The customers' willingness and ability to pay for rental properties, hotels and tenant-owned properties is thus of decisive importance for the Group's business, results and financial condition.

The willingness to pay for properties or tenant-owned properties depends partly on how well they conform to market demand, the activity on the property market, fluctuations in housing prices in general and demographic factors such as numbers of people moving into the markets in which the Issuer operates. Furthermore, willingness to pay is affected by factors such as access to and cost of alternative forms of accommodation.

If there is any reduction in customers' willingness or ability to pay for properties or tenant-owned properties built or developed by the Group, it could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

The ability to implement property development projects profitably in financial terms may also be affected by whether the housing, residential care facilities, hotels or student housing adequately respond to market demand, whether the demand for or price of housing, hotels or residential care facilities and student housing generally changes, deficient planning, analysis and cost control, changes in taxes and fees and other factors that may lead to delays or higher or unforeseen costs in the projects. If the Group does not manage to successfully analyse demand on the market, for example by developing residential units in a price class that is not in demand, it could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

Risks relating to the business model and project

The Group's business largely consists of property development projects - primarily new construction, but also conversion of properties (originally intended for other purposes) to housing, residential care facilities, hotels and student housing. The ability to continue to implement such projects and implement them profitably in financial terms is therefore a prerequisite for the Group's future development.

The ability to implement property development projects profitably in financial terms is dependent on a number of factors, such as the Group's ability to maintain and obtain necessary permits and decisions by authorities and carry out procurements relating to construction contracts for the implementation of the projects on terms acceptable to the Issuer. At an early stage in each project, the Group often enters into a land allocation agreement under which the Group has a sole right, for a limited time and under certain conditions, to carry on negotiations with a municipal authority concerning the transfer of an area of land. However, if an agreement cannot be reached with the municipal authority within the prescribed period, the municipal authority has no obligation to transfer the area of land in question to the Group and the Group is not then entitled to receive compensation for project planning costs incurred.

The Issuer has entered into a framework agreement with Slättö under which Slättö has undertaken, given certain conditions, to acquire rental housing projects from the Issuer. In order to fulfill its obligations under the framework agreement, the Issuer is dependent on the Issuer's ability to enter into a binding agreement on the acquisition of the properties in question, the local planning becoming legally binding and the ability to enter into construction contracts. If, on certain pre-determined dates, the Issuer is unable to supply projects of a certain value, Slättö is entitled to terminate the framework agreement and is also entitled to receive standardised damages (a pre-determined amount of damages) and to be refunded the SEK 50 million deposit that was paid under the framework agreement, plus 7 percent interest. Under the framework agreement, Slättö is entitled to terminate the framework agreement on certain specified conditions. Slättö and the Issuer are of different views as to whether a sufficient volume of projects ready for production have been delivered by the Issuer to date, and the framework agreement between Slättö and the Issuer is currently being renegotiated based on the common intention of the parties to amend the framework agreement. The aim is to ensure that the framework agreement is better adapted to changes in conditions and to assess the extent to which projects under the framework agreement can be adapted to the changes to investment grant rules. In the event the negotiations do not come to a conclusion and, contrary to the Issuer's view, Slättö is entitled to terminate the agreement, Slättö will be entitled to standardised damages of SEK 5 million and to be refunded the deposit plus interest.

In several projects, the Group has entered into development agreements or land allocation agreements and has thus undertaken vis-à-vis the municipal authority, under penalty of a fine, to ensure that the housing is let as rental housing for a specified period from when the agreement is entered into. However, no corresponding obligation has been included in the transfer agreements whereby the projects have been transferred to a purchaser. Therefore, the Group has no control over the letting of the homes after the transfer and there is a risk that the Group may incur an obligation to pay a fine if the purchaser of the project lets the homes as tenant-owned housing.

In transfer agreements entered into with purchasers of rental projects, the Group usually undertakes to compensate the purchaser for any vacancies up to a certain level within a period of up to 24 months from the date on which the housing becomes available for rental. The Group also undertakes to pay compensation to the purchaser if, after negotiations with the Swedish Union of Tenants, the rent level for the housing is set lower than the expected rent level.

Another factor affecting the ability to implement property development projects profitably in financial terms is whether all parties to the agreement fulfill their commitments to the Group. If, for example, a contractor in a rental project is unable to meet its commitments, for example due to bankruptcy or breach of contract on the part of the contractor, and the project cannot therefore be completed by a certain agreed date, the purchaser of the property may request annulment of the acquisition under the share purchase agreement entered into between the Group and the purchaser. Annulment of the acquisition means that the Group must refund the purchase price and the property transferred must revert to the Group. In such a situation, the purchaser is also entitled to receive a penalty. If the purchaser instead requests that the project be completed, there is a risk that the Group may need to carry out a procurement relating to a new contract on terms that are less acceptable to the Group. If a purchaser of a property is similarly unable to meet its commitments vis-à-vis the Group, the Group is still bound by the construction agreement entered into with the contractor for the relevant project. There is thus a risk that the Group may incur higher costs to enter into a new share purchase agreement with a new purchaser for the project.

In the case of a property development project for tenant-owned apartments, the tenant-owners association, unlike the purchaser in a rental project, is normally not entitled to receive a penalty in the event of delay in the completion of the project. However, under certain circumstances, the tenant-owners association may nevertheless be entitled to damages as a result of the delay. The Group is usually entitled to receive a certain late payment penalty under the turnkey contract entered into with an external contractor. However, there is a risk that the damages to which the tenant-owners association may be entitled may exceed any such penalty. Furthermore, if the delay is caused by the contractor's bankruptcy, the Group will find it difficult to obtain any penalty payment from the contractor. The Group normally has a right to terminate the construction contracts entered into with an external contractor up until a certain number of binding preliminary agreements have been entered into regarding the transfer of tenant-owned apartments. Nevertheless, there is a risk that the Group may incur higher costs if, once that number of preliminary agreements has been entered into and the Group is bound by the construction contract, most of the purchasers who have entered into preliminary agreements on the transfer of a share in the tenant-owners association subsequently fail to fulfill their obligations under those agreements. In such circumstances, the purchasers are generally required to compensate the Group for any damage caused to the Group in that respect. However, the Group's ability to obtain full compensation for any damage that may arise if the tenant-owned apartments cannot be let to other purchasers may be limited in view of the fact that the purchasers are individuals.

Technical risks exist in the case of both new production and conversion to housing, residential care facilities, hotels and student housing. These include the risk of construction faults, the risk that it may not be possible to convert the building for housing, hotel or residential property purposes in a satisfactory manner in terms of building or construction technology, other hidden faults or defects, damage and contaminants. If such technical problems arise, they may lead to delays in planned property development projects or higher costs for new construction or conversion to housing, residential care facilities, hotels and student housing.

Historically speaking, the Group has primarily developed housing in the form of rental and tenant-owned properties. In connection with the development of untried projects such as residential care facilities, hotels and student housing, there is a risk that these projects may not be implemented in a way that is expected by or satisfactory to the Group.

If one or more of the above factors were to be detrimental or if any of the above risks were to materialise, it could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

Risks relating to rent revenues, increases or reductions in rental levels, termination of rentals and operating and maintenance costs

The Group owns a number of properties that are managed by a third party. These owned properties contain a significant number of premises that are rented to the Group's tenants. The Group intends to develop these premises into housing and then sell the relevant properties.

If the occupancy ratio or rental levels for these properties falls, for whatever reason, it will have an adverse effect on the Group's results. The risk of major fluctuations in vacancy rates and reductions in rental income is greater the more single large tenants a company has. There is no guarantee that the Group's larger tenants will renew or extend their leases when they expire, which could lead to a reduction in rental income and higher vacancy rates in the long term.

The Group is dependent on tenants' paying the agreed rents on time and there is therefore a risk that tenants may suspend payments or otherwise fail to fulfill their obligations. If it occurs, the Group's results could be adversely affected.

The possession of properties that are rented out is also associated with certain operating expenses. Operating expenses consist mainly of tariff-bound costs such as costs for electricity, refuse collection, water and heating. If any cost increases are not compensated for by adjustments in lease agreements or rental increases through renegotiation of lease agreements, this could have an adverse effect on the Group's financial condition and results. Maintenance expenses are related to measures aimed at maintaining the standard of the property in the long term. These expenses are expensed if they consist of repairs and replacement of smaller parts. Other additional maintenance expenses that increase the value for the Group are capitalised when the expense is incurred. Unforeseen and extensive need for renovation as well as higher prices for such renovations could lead to significantly higher maintenance expenses, which could have an adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

In advance of the housing development, the Group will need to terminate existing lease agreements for premises to remove the tenants, whereupon the tenants will be entitled to receive damages under certain conditions. Those claims for damages may amount to significant sums and if the tenants claim and are entitled to damages due to the terminations, the Group's results and financial condition may be adversely affected.

Acquisition, sales and other transaction-related risks

Property transactions are carried out within the framework of the Group's activities. All such transactions are associated with uncertainty and risks. In the case of acquisitions of properties, for example, uncertainty exists with regard to the management of tenants, unforeseen costs for environmental restoration and remediation, unforeseen land conditions, reconstruction and management of technical problems, decisions by authorities and the emergence of disputes relating to the acquisition or state of the property. Such uncertainties may lead to delays in projects or higher or unexpected costs for the properties or transactions. In some acquisition agreements, the Group has paid a deposit that flows to the seller in the event the agreement becomes invalid due to certain terms and conditions that are outside of the Group's control, primarily attributable to local planning work, such as the local planning not being approved and not entering into force within a certain period of time.

In the case of sales of properties, either as rental properties, residential care facilities, hotels, student housing or as individual tenant-owned apartments, there is uncertainty with regard to such aspects as the price and the ability to find a market for all rental properties, hotels, residential care facilities, student housing or tenant-owned apartments. For example, under the share purchase agreement entered into between the Group and the purchaser of a rental property, the purchaser may be entitled to compensation equivalent to the difference between a predetermined rent level and the lower average price for which the purchaser can actually rent out the property. If delays occur in the completion of the property or the housing, for example due to technical problems, the purchaser may be entitled to request cancellation of the acquisition. Different claims may thus be directed at the Group, for example regarding fees for delays when building rental apartment properties, hotels and residential care facilities and with regard to the condition of the properties.

In the majority of the share purchase agreements relating to sales of the projects, the Group gives a warranty that the purchaser must be compensated in full for any claims for damages brought by contractors, consultants and other third parties (such as tenants) and for any costs that arise in connection with the project and the construction contract. In some share purchase agreements, the Group has also provided an undertaking (subject to certain conditions) to pay damages to the purchaser if the projects are delayed. Equivalent undertakings are usually contained in the construction contracts. However, the contractor is often entitled to an extension of the agreed construction period and to postpone the agreed completion date if delays are caused by certain factors beyond the contractor's control, whilst the Group is still obliged to pay damages to the purchaser under most of the share purchase agreements. Furthermore, the commencement date of the warranty period generally differs to some extent between the construction contracts and the share purchase agreements as far as concerns the contract work.

If the Group's protection against delays or claims due to agreements with contractors and others proves to be insufficient, it may be the case that the Group will not receive payment for such claims from purchasers of properties or housing.

In conjunction with the sale of a tenant-owned apartment, the tenant-owners association enters into preliminary agreements with individuals. The Group's standard template for preliminary agreements states an estimated transfer date and a period during which the estimated date of possession is expected to occur, and the tenant-owners association is entitled to delay the dates if the construction of the apartments is taking longer than expected, although no longer than six months without the purchaser being entitled to pull out of the deal.

According to the Swedish Tenant-Owned Apartment Act (1991:614), an estimated transfer date must be stated in a preliminary agreement. There is uncertainty in case law and among legal commentators as to how specific the estimated date should be. If the transfer date is not sufficiently specified, the preliminary agreement may be invalid. The requirements in the Tenant-Owned Apartment Act refer to the transfer date, but may also be considered to apply to the date of possession. This means that the period of time between the transfer date and the date of possession must not be unreasonably long for the preliminary agreement to be considered valid.

In addition, according to the Tenant-Owned Apartment Act, a potential purchaser is entitled under a signed preliminary agreement to pull out of the deal if the transfer does not occur within a reasonable amount of time after the estimated transfer date due to the negligence of the association.

If the preliminary agreements the Group has entered into with potential purchasers of tenant-owned apartments were to be considered invalid, a cost exposure could arise for the Group since it would not be possible to pull out of the construction agreements entered into after signing a certain number of preliminary agreements.

If any of the risks described above were to materialise, it could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

The Group is dependent on satisfactory collaboration with the other partners in associated companies and joint ventures

Since some aspects of the Group's property development activities take place in associated companies and joint ventures, the Group is dependent on satisfactory collaboration with the other partners in associated companies and joint ventures with regard to the implementation and results of both current and future projects. Within the framework of the collaboration in these associated companies and joint ventures, the Group normally pursues issues related to project management and project administration, although without a controlling interest.

If one or more collaborations no longer progress in a positive direction, it could lead to disputes and the dissolution of associated companies and joint ventures as well as their assets being sold off on unfavorable terms.

The Group's capacity to initiate new partnerships and develop existing partnerships in associated companies and joint ventures can affect its ability to successfully implement projects in progress, planned projects and new projects. If such collaborations cannot be initiated or if they take place on unfavorable terms for the Group, it could lead to delays in the Group's projects, an inability to finance them or situations whereby they are not implemented as planned or can only be implemented less profitably or at a loss.

Furthermore, the Group is dependent on how current and future partners in associated companies and joint ventures act, which can lead to reduced flexibility in managing the business, including with regard to investments in or sales of properties at associated companies and joint ventures. There is also a risk, if the progress of associated companies and joint ventures is not beneficial to the Group, that the Group will be unable to adopt the measures the Group considers most advantageous. If any of the risks described above were to materialise, it could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

Dependence on laws, permits and decisions

The Group's business is regulated and affected not only by a large number of laws and regulations, but also by a range of processes and decisions relating to these regulations, both at the political level and at the level of administrative officials. Among other things, the Planning and Construction Act (2010:900), building standards, safety regulations, rules on permissible construction materials, antiquarian building classifications and various forms of cultural listings have a tremendous effect on the Issuer's operations and costs and its ability to develop the properties in a desirable manner. Other political decisions could also have an adverse effect on the Group's business. The Group's activities are carried out in accordance with the Issuer's interpretation of existing laws and rules and the Group carries out its property development in accordance therewith. There is a risk that the Group's interpretation of laws and rules is incorrect and that laws and regulations may be amended in the future. Laws and regulations may in the future mean that the Group is unable to use or convert the Group's properties in the intended manner or that it can only be done more expensively or with delays.

Furthermore, various permits and decisions are required, including such items as local planning and various types of property registrations, which are granted and issued by bodies such as municipalities and authorities and that are decided on at both political and administrator level, to enable the Group's properties to be used and developed in the intended manner. There is a risk that the Group may in the future not be granted permits for new construction, renovation or change of use of properties acquired or that it may not obtain the decisions by authorities required to run and develop the business in a desirable manner. Furthermore, decisions may be appealed and therefore substantially delayed and standard decision-making procedures and the political will and direction may change in the future in a way that is detrimental to the Group. In addition, changes in permits and plans may mean that property development projects are delayed, become more expensive or cannot be implemented at all. Furthermore, changes in current laws, regulations and rules could result in unexpected costs and could restrict the progress of the Group's business. The Group is dependent on good relations with the municipal authorities in the markets in which the Group operates for obtaining opportunities for land allocations, among other things. If relations with these municipal authorities deteriorated, for example because in a previous project the Group had failed to live up to the municipal authority's expectations with regard to sustainability requirements and the city's vision, there is a risk that the Group would not obtain opportunities for new land allocations. That would mean restrictions on the progress of the Group's business.

If any of the risks described above were to materialise, it could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

Environmental risk

In accordance with current environmental legislation, the starting point for responsibility regarding pollutants and other environmental damage is that the operator who has contributed to the pollutants and environmental damage bears the responsibility. However, if it is not possible to locate the polluter or if the polluter is unable to carry out or pay for environmental restoration and remediation, the person who has acquired the property and who, at the time of the acquisition, was aware of or should have detected the pollutants is responsible for the environmental restoration and remediation. This means that under certain conditions the Group may be required to clean up land and carry out subsequent treatment of pollution or suspected pollution in land, water areas or groundwater in order to render the property in the state required under the Swedish Environmental Code.

The Group has previously issued an environmental guarantee in connection with property sales and may also need to issue an environmental guarantee in the future due to the current state of negotiations. This means that the Group may need to pay damages for environmental restoration and remediation even when the Group is not required to do so in accordance with applicable environmental legislation.

Furthermore, previous operators may have carried out subsequent treatment of a property in an acceptable manner based on the use of the property at that time. Nevertheless, due to the change of use to housing, residential care facilities, hotels or student housing, the requirements for the Group may be higher, which means that in these cases the Group may incur costs for subsequent treatment and clean-up to enable the property to be used in the intended manner.

Finally, changes to environmental laws, rules and requirements could mean that the Group may incur higher costs for clean-up or subsequent treatment of properties acquired now or in the future. Furthermore, such changes could lead to higher costs or delays and may mean that the Group is unable to develop properties in a manner that is desirable for the Group.

All such requirements could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

Furthermore, unforeseen geological discoveries or unforeseen discoveries of endangered animal species in or adjacent to the place where a property development project is to be implemented could mean that the project is delayed, becomes more expensive or cannot be implemented at all, which could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

Competition

The Group operates in a competitive industry. In the future, the Group's competitors may increase in number and become stronger due to mergers, for example. If the Group fails to successfully compete against current and future competitors, it could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

The property industry has historically been involved in a number of bribery and cartel scandals and is considered to be a risk industry as far as various types of anti-competitive behavior are concerned. The industry has previously been the subject of several investigations by the European Commission and a number of national competition authorities within the European Union ("EU"), including in Sweden. The anti-competitive environment is due in particular to the generally weak competition on the market, which is often dominated by a small number of strong operators. These anti-competitive factors also make it difficult for smaller operators to enter and operate in the market.

There is a risk that cases of non-compliance with competition legislation may have occurred and that non-compliance may occur in the future. The Group may also be subject to investigations by and procedures involving competition authorities, which may result in costs for the Group.

If any of the above risk factors were to materialise, it could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

Key personnel

The Group is dependent on the knowledge, skills and experience of key personnel. Key personnel possess extensive knowledge of the Group and the industry. It is therefore important for the Group and its future business to successfully retain and also recruit key personnel, as required. If key personnel leave the Group or if the Group fails to successfully recruit future key personnel, it could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

Deterioration of reputation

The Group's reputation is important for its business. If the Group's reputation deteriorates, this could result in the Group losing the confidence of its customers and other interested parties. If, for example, the Group or any of its members of executive management take any action that conflicts with the values that the Group represents or if any of the Group's real estate projects fail to live up to market expectations, there is a risk that the Group's reputation will be damaged. Unwarranted negative publicity may also damage the Group's reputation. A deterioration in the Group's reputation could result in a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

Interest rate fluctuations

The Group's business, in particular with regard to the acquisition of properties, is financed largely by loans from external lenders and interest expenses are a significant expense item for the Group. The applicable interest rates may change, and it is not impossible that future interest expenses may be higher than the profits generated by the Group's investments. At the same time, interest rates are an important factor for households' ability to pay and for the ability of the purchasers of the Group's rental projects to obtain financing on favorable terms. Higher rates could result in a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

Financing risk

Much of the Group's business consists of property development projects, which may be delayed or affected by unforeseen or higher costs due to factors within or beyond the Group's control. If such circumstances occur, it could mean that projects may not be completed before loans fall due or that increased costs cannot be covered by the credit facilities granted. If the Group were unable to obtain financing for acquisitions or development, any extension or increase of existing financing or refinancing of financing previously obtained, or is only able to obtain such financing on unfavorable terms, for example due to delayed projects, unforeseen or increased costs due to factors within or beyond the Group's control, or a low equity ratio, this could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

The Group's ability to meet conditions for existing bonds and facility agreements

The Issuer issued bonds in April 2016 and in October 2016 (the "Existing Bonds"). The terms and conditions for the Existing Bonds include certain financial obligations, restrictions on the Issuer issuing dividends, restrictions relating to the conditions under which the Group can raise debt, provide collateral and sell assets, commitments regarding the provision of certain information and provisions regarding change of control. If the Group violates any of the terms and conditions for the Existing Bonds, the Issuer may be compelled to repay the Existing Bonds prematurely. The Existing Bonds also contain a condition known as "cross-acceleration" which means that the Issuer may be compelled to repay the Existing Bond prematurely if any of the Issuer's or its material subsidiaries' debts fall due prematurely in accordance with the grounds for termination under such an agreement. The "cross-acceleration" condition is subject to a threshold, which means that it is only triggered if other debt falling due prematurely amounts to at least SEK 15 million. The Terms and Conditions of the Bonds will also contain a cross-acceleration clause that is subject to a SEK 15 million threshold.

Several subsidiaries within the Group have entered into facility agreements with different banks. The facility agreements contain provisions on change of control. If any of the subsidiaries is in breach of a facility agreement, the bank in question may have a right to terminate the agreement, which means that outstanding loans must be paid immediately. Some of the agreements also contain dividend restriction clauses. The clauses include an obligation not to distribute dividends or not to propose that the subsidiaries should distribute dividends. In addition, some of the facility agreements contain conditions entitling the bank to terminate the agreement if the borrower's or certain group companies' debts (i) become subject to grounds for termination under such an agreement ("cross-default"), or (ii) fall due in accordance with grounds for termination under such an agreement ("cross-acceleration"). Some of these facility agreements have no threshold, which means that the "cross-acceleration" condition is applicable regardless of the size of the amount due for premature payment.

If the Group is in breach of any of the above conditions, it could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

Credit risk

The Group is dependent on receiving payment for the housing, residential care facilities, hotels or student housing that the Group has entered into agreements to sell. There is a risk that the Group's customers may be unable to meet their financial commitments with the Group. Furthermore, the Group is exposed to credit risks in relation to other counterparties, such as tenant-owners associations. Such counterparties can end up in a financial situation in which they are unable to pay agreed fees or other debts to the Group when those fees or debts fall due. If the Group's counterparties are unable to meet their financial commitments with the Group, it could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

Liquidity risk

Liquidity risk is the risk that the Company may be unable to meet its payment obligations (including the payment obligations under the Bonds) on the due date without a considerable increase in the cost of obtaining funds for payment. Magnolia Bostad is in a phase of expansion, which means that the Company's liquidity requirements will increase. If the Company's sources of liquidity prove to be insufficient, it could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

Dependence on subsidiaries

The Issuer is a holding company and holds no significant assets other than ownership of subsidiaries and receivables at subsidiaries. The Issuer is thus dependent on receiving sufficient revenues from the subsidiaries. The subsidiaries' ability to make various kinds of payments to the Issuer, such as group contributions, dividends and other financial flows, may be jeopardised by changes in the subsidiaries' activities or regulatory restrictions. Such payments could also be limited due to various commitments such as facility agreements entered into by a subsidiary or due to tax restrictions that make financial transfers more difficult or more expensive. Lack of opportunities for the subsidiaries to transfer funds to the Issuer could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

Insurance

The Group's insurance includes, among others, liability insurance, contract insurance and property insurance. There is a risk that the Group in future may be unable to maintain its insurance cover on acceptable terms for the Group or that future insurance claims may exceed or fall outside the Group's insurance cover, which could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

Tax

The Group's operations are affected by the tax rules in effect in Sweden at any given time. The Group's tax situation is also affected by whether transactions between companies within the Group, as well as between the Group and tenant-owners associations or other counterparties, in connection with projects, are considered to be priced at market levels. The Group's or its tax advisers' interpretation and the Group's application of laws, rules, regulations and case law in the area of taxation may have been, or may continue to be, incorrect. Applicable laws, regulations and case law can also change, which could affect the conditions for the Group's business.

On March 30, 2017, the study on certain issues with regard to property tax and stamp duty presented a report¹ proposing a number of changes to the law which may affect aspects such as the ability to sell property-owning companies without immediate taxation. The new proposal entails, as a starting point, that a sale of a property-owning company triggers taxation on the difference between the property's value for tax purposes and its market value. The proposal also entails that a standard tax corresponding to stamp duty of 2 percent of the market value of the property will be levied on the divested company. If legislation is implemented based on the current wording of the proposal it could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

Since the Inquiry into certain matters within the area of property tax and stamp duty published its proposal, the Government has submitted for consultation to the Council on Legislation a proposal for the new tax rules for the corporate sector.² The purpose of the proposed rules is to limit the differences in how equity and borrowed capital are treated and make it possible to broaden the company tax base in order to prevent tax base erosion and transfer of profit.

¹ Certain matters within the area of property tax and stamp duty (Swedish Government Official Reports 2017:27).

² New tax rules for the corporate sector (Government draft ratification bill, March 21, 2018). The consultation is in several respects a revised version of Government Memorandum, New tax rules for the corporate sector (Fi2017/02752/S1), published June 20, 2017.

The main features of the Government's proposal can be summarised as follows:

- The right to deduct negative net interest rate income or expenses is limited to a maximum of 30 percent of the company's taxable EBITDA. This concerns interest rates on both internal and external loans. Negative net interest income or expenses as a rule may be carried forward for a period of six years and under certain conditions utilised by other group companies.
- If the negative net interest income or expense is less than SEK 5 million, a full deduction may be granted. This simplification rule is applied, simply put, where there is an alignment of interests.
- The current rules preventing cross-border interest rate arbitrage are kept in a slightly altered and narrower formulation. Furthermore, some rules to prevent interest rate deductions in certain hybrid situations are introduced.
- A primary deduction is introduced for newly constructed rental apartment buildings, under which an extra depreciation deduction is allowed during the first six years after the building is completed. The primary deduction will also apply to expenses for additions or renovations.
- Corporate tax is lowered in two steps to 20.6 percent starting in 2021.

In addition to the above, it can be noted that previous proposals to limit the right to loss carry-forwards were removed from the proposal referred to the Council on Legislation for consideration. The new provisions are proposed to enter into force on January 1, 2019, but the actual wording of future legislation is currently not finalised since a final proposal has not been announced. The Group has treated its interest expenses as fully deductible in accordance with current legislation. The new proposal could lead to a limited right to deduct interest expenses for the Group and thus a higher tax expense.

Under a framework agreement with Alecta, the Group has committed under certain conditions to indemnify Alecta for any tax levy that may arise for Alecta as an investor with regard to the transactions conducted in accordance with the framework agreement due to any changes to the tax legislation that has been described above.

If any of the risks described above were to materialise, it could, in summary, have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

Risks relating to accounting

The Issuer's financial statements are affected by the accounting rules applied in the jurisdictions in which the Group operates. This also applies to the consolidated financial statements where IFRS is applied. This means that the Group's accounting, financial statements and internal controls in the future may be affected by and need to be adapted to changes in accounting rules and the application and interpretation of such accounting standards.

IFRS 16 Leases, which enters into force on January 1, 2019, replaces, for example, the current standard IAS 17 and will place new demands on the calculation, presentation, and reporting of leases where the Issuer is the lessee. According to the new standard, most leased assets will be reported in the balance sheet, which will lead to a higher balance sheet total and a lower equity/assets ratio. In accordance with IFRS 16, an asset (the right to use the leased asset) and a financial liability for future lease payments are reported. The only exceptions to this are short-term leases and leases with a low value. Instead of reporting rental costs, results will be affected by depreciation of the asset and an interest expense attributable to the liability. The Issuer has begun an analysis of the effects of IFRS 16. The initial assessment is that the standard will have a limited effect on the consolidated financial statements since the Group has limited leasing, but there will be an increase in the disclosure requirements. If this assessment were proved to be incorrect, this could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

Processing of personal data

In May 2018 the new EU General Data Protection Regulation ("GDPR") entered into force. GDPR sets forth new requirements for the handling of personal data. There is a risk that the Group's security procedures concerning personal data, and other procedures for protecting personal data that the Group has implemented, are insufficient for preventing the disclosure or processing of personal data contrary to applicable legislation, and that IT and system failures or defects leads to the loss of personal data or other information. GDPR includes higher sanctions for breaches than previous data protection legislation and a breach of GDPR could result in fines amounting to a maximum of the higher of EUR 20 million or four per cent. of the Group's global turnover. If the Group fails to comply with GDPR there is hence a risk that this will have an adverse effect on the Group's business and financial position.

Legal disputes

The Issuer may become involved in disputes or claims. Disputes can be time-consuming and may entail costs, the size of which cannot always be foreseen. Disputes could therefore have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results and financial condition.

Risks relating to the Bonds

Credit risks

Investors in the Bonds carry a credit risk relating to the Group. The investors' ability to receive payment under the Terms and Conditions is dependent on the Issuer's ability to meet its payment obligations, which in turn is largely dependent upon the performance of the Group's operations and its financial position. The Group's financial position is affected by several factors of which some have been mentioned above. An increased credit risk may cause the market to charge the Bonds a higher risk premium, which would affect the Bonds' value negatively. Another aspect of the credit risk is that a deteriorating financial position of the Group may reduce the Group's possibility to receive debt financing at the time of the maturity of the Bonds.

Refinancing risk

The Group may eventually be required to refinance certain or all of its outstanding debt, including the Bonds. The Group's ability to successfully refinance its debt is dependent on the conditions of the capital markets and its financial condition at such time. The Group's access to financing sources may not be available on favorable terms, or at all. The Group's inability to refinance its debt obligations on favorable terms, or at all, could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, financial condition and results of operations and on the bondholders' recovery under the Bonds.

Ability to comply with the Terms and Conditions

The Group is required to comply with the Terms and Conditions. Events beyond the Group's control, including changes in the economic and business conditions in which the Group operates, may affect the Group's ability to comply with, among other things, the undertakings set out in the Terms and Conditions. A breach of the Terms and Conditions could result in a default under the Terms and Conditions, which could lead to an acceleration of the Bonds, resulting in that the Issuer has to repay the bondholders at the applicable call premium. It is possible that the Issuer will not have sufficient funds at the time of the repayment to make the required redemption of Bonds.

Interest rate risks

The Bonds' value depends on several factors, one of the most significant over time being the level of market interest. Investments in the Bonds involve a risk that the market value of the Bonds may be adversely affected by changes in market interest rates.

Liquidity risks and secondary market

Pursuant to the Terms and Conditions the Issuer has an obligation to use its best efforts list the Bonds on the corporate bond list of Nasdaq Stockholm within thirty (30) days after the first issue date. Even if the Bonds are admitted to trading on aforementioned market, active trading in the Bonds does not always occur and a liquid market for trading in the Bonds might not occur even if the Bonds are listed. This may result in that the bondholders cannot sell their Bonds when desired or at a price level which allows for a profit comparable to similar investments with an active and functioning secondary market. Lack of liquidity in the market may have a negative impact on the market value of the Bonds. Furthermore, the nominal value of the Bonds may not be indicative compared to the market price of the Bonds if the Bonds are admitted for trading on Nasdaq Stockholm. It should also be noted that during a given time period it may be difficult or impossible to sell the Bonds (at all or at reasonable terms) due to, for example, severe price fluctuations, close down of the relevant market or trade restrictions imposed on the market.

Market price of the Bonds may be volatile

The market price of the Bonds could be subject to significant fluctuations in response to actual or anticipated variations in the Group's operating results and those of its competitors, adverse business developments, changes to the regulatory environment in which the Group operates, changes in financial estimates by securities analysts and the actual or expected sale of a large number of Bonds, as well as other factors. In addition, in recent years the global financial markets have experienced significant price and volume fluctuations, which, if repeated in the future, could adversely affect the market price of the Bonds without regard to the Group's operating results, financial condition or prospects.

Majority owner

Following any potential change of control in the Issuer, the Issuer may be controlled by a majority shareholder whose interest may conflict with those of the bondholders, particularly if the Group encounters difficulties or is unable to pay its debts as they fall due. A majority shareholder has legal power to control a large amount of the matters to be decided by vote at a shareholder's meeting. For example, a majority shareholder will have the ability to elect the board of directors. Furthermore, a majority shareholder may also have an interest in pursuing acquisitions, divestitures, financings or other transactions that, in their judgment, could enhance their equity investments, although such transactions might involve risks to the bondholders. There is nothing that prevents a shareholder or any of its affiliates from acquiring businesses that directly compete with the Group. If such an event were to arise, it could have a material negative impact on the Group's operations, earnings and financial position. According to the Terms and Conditions, if a change of control event occurs, the bondholders have however a right of prepayment of the Bonds (put option). There is thus a risk that the Issuer does not have enough liquidity to repurchase the Bonds if the bondholders use its right of prepayment, see further under the section "Early Redemption and put options" below.

Risks relating to the Bonds being unsecured

The Bonds represents an unsecured obligation of the Issuer. If the Issuer is subject to any foreclosure, dissolution, winding-up, liquidation, recapitalisation, administrative or other bankruptcy or insolvency proceedings, all of the Issuer's secured obligations must first be satisfied, potentially leaving little or no remaining assets in the Issuer for the bondholders. As a result, the bondholders may not recover any or full value. The bondholders will only have an unsecured claim against the assets (if any) in the Issuer for the amounts under or in respect of the Bonds, which means that the bondholders normally would receive payment (pro rata with other unsecured non-priority creditors) after any priority creditors have been paid in full.

Further, the Issuer has currently outstanding secured debt, including, but not limited to, a secured bonds (ISIN SE0008293823) in an amount of SEK 500,000,000 issued in April 2016. Consequently, an enforcement of such security for the secured obligations can have a material negative effect on the recovery for the bondholders in respect of the Bonds.

Subsidiaries, structural subordination and insolvency of subsidiaries

A significant part of the Group's assets and revenues relate to the Issuer's subsidiaries. The subsidiaries are legally separated from the Issuer and the subsidiaries' ability to make payments to the Issuer is restricted by, among other things, the availability of funds, corporate restrictions and law restrictions. Furthermore, in the event of insolvency, liquidation or a similar event relating to one of the subsidiaries, all creditors of such subsidiary would be entitled to payment in full out of the assets of such subsidiary before any entity within the Group, as a shareholder, would be entitled to any payments. Thus, the Bonds are structurally subordinated to the liabilities of the subsidiaries. The Group and its assets may not be protected from any actions by the creditors of any subsidiary of the Group, whether under bankruptcy law, by contract or otherwise. In addition, defaults by, or the insolvency of, certain subsidiaries of the Group could result in the obligation of the Group to make payments under parent company financial or performance guarantees in respect of such subsidiaries' obligations or the occurrence of cross defaults on certain borrowings of the Group.

Security over assets granted to third parties

The Group may, subject to limitations, incur additional financial indebtedness and provide additional security for such indebtedness. In the event of bankruptcy, reorganisation or winding-up of the Issuer, the bondholders will be subordinated in right of payment out of the assets being subject to security. In addition, if any such third party financier holding security provided by the Group would enforce such security due to a default by any Group Company under the relevant finance documents, such enforcement could have a material adverse effect on the Group's assets, operations and ultimately the position of the bondholders.

Currency risks

The Bonds will be denominated and payable in SEK. If bondholders in the Bonds measure their investment return by reference to a currency other than SEK, an investment in the Bonds will entail foreign exchange-related risks due to, among other factors, possible significant changes in the value of the SEK relative to the currency by reference to which investors measure the return on their investments could cause a decrease in the effective yield of the Bonds below their stated coupon rates and could result in a loss to investors when the return on the Bonds is translated into the currency by reference to which the investors measure the return on their investments. Government and monetary authorities may impose (as some have done in the past) exchange controls that could adversely affect an applicable exchange rate or the ability of the Issuer to make payments in respect of the Bonds. As a result, there is a risk that investors may receive less interest or principal than expected, or no interest or principal.

Early redemption and put options

Under the Terms and Conditions the Issuer has the possibility to redeem all outstanding Bonds before the final redemption date. If the Bonds are redeemed before the final redemption date, the holders of the Bonds have the right to receive an early redemption amount which exceeds the nominal amount in accordance with the Terms and Conditions. However, there is a risk that the market value of the Bonds is higher than the early redemption amount and that it may not be possible for bondholders to reinvest such proceeds at an effective interest rate as high as the interest rate on the Bonds and might only be able to do so at a significantly lower rate.

According to the Terms and Conditions, the Bonds are subject to prepayment at the option of each bondholder (put options) if (i) the Issuer's shares are not listed and admitted to trading on First North Stockholm, on Nasdaq Stockholm or any other regulated market or trading of the Issuer's shares on the aforementioned stock exchange is suspended for a period of 15 consecutive banking days, (ii) the initial Bonds have not been admitted to listing on the corporate bond list on Nasdaq Stockholm within 60 days of the first issue date or the Bonds cease to be listed on the corporate bond list of Nasdaq Stockholm, or (iii) if one or more persons, (other than Fredrik Holmström and/or his affiliates) acting together acquire control over the Issuer and where "control" means (a) acquiring or controlling, directly or indirectly, more than 50.00 per cent. of the voting rights of the Issuer, or (b) the right to, directly or indirectly, appoint or remove the whole or a majority of the directors of the board of directors of the Issuer. There is, however, a risk that the Issuer will not have sufficient funds at the time of such prepayment to make the required prepayment of the Bonds which could adversely affect the Issuer, e.g. by causing insolvency or an event of default under the Terms and Conditions, and thus adversely affect all bondholders and not only those that choose to exercise the option.

Distributions

The Group is under the Terms and Conditions prohibited from making distributions, unless the Group holds cash or cash equivalents of minimum SEK 25,000,000 and provided that the equity ratio is above certain levels. Depending on the level of the equity ratio, the Group may distribute between 50 – 100 per cent. of the Group's consolidated net profit for the previous fiscal year. If any distributions are made, it could have an adverse effect on the Group's assets and on the position of the bondholders.

Material Group Companies

The Terms and Conditions contain certain events of default which are triggered by a cross-acceleration, insolvency, insolvency proceeding, creditors' process, cessation of business, merger or de-merger or similar event occurring in relation to a material group company. A material group company is a defined term in the Terms and Conditions and includes only the Issuer and its subsidiaries which (on a consolidated basis) represent more than 10 per cent. of the total assets of the Group on a consolidated basis according to the latest financial report.

Due to the threshold there is a risk that one or more companies within the Group, which do not qualify as material group companies for the purposes of the Terms and Conditions, suffer financial difficulties or are subject to any of the other events described above without triggering an event of default. This may have a material adverse effect on the position of the bondholders.

No action against the Issuer and bondholders' representation

In accordance with the Terms and Conditions, the Agent will represent all bondholders in all matters relating to the Bonds and the bondholders are prevented from taking actions on their own against the Issuer. Consequently, individual bondholders do not have the right to take legal actions to declare any default by claiming any payment from or enforcing any security granted by the Issuer and may therefore lack effective remedies unless and until a requisite majority of the bondholders agree to take such action. However, there is a risk that an individual bondholder, in certain situations, could bring its own action against the Issuer (in breach of the Terms and Conditions) which could negatively impact an acceleration of the Bonds or other action against the Issuer.

To enable the Agent to represent bondholders in court, the bondholders and/or their nominees may have to submit a written power of attorney for legal proceedings. The failure of all bondholders to submit such a power of attorney could negatively affect the legal proceedings.

Under the Terms and Conditions, the Agent will in some cases have the right to make decisions and take measures that bind all bondholders. Consequently, the actions of the Agent in such matters could impact a bondholder's rights under the Terms and Conditions in a manner that would be undesirable for some of the bondholders.

Bondholders' meetings

The Terms and Conditions include certain provisions regarding bondholders' meetings and written procedures. Such meetings and procedures may be held in order to resolve on matters relating to the bondholders' interests. The Terms and Conditions will allow for stated majorities to bind all bondholders, including bondholders who have not taken part in the meeting or procedure and those who have voted differently to the required majority at a duly convened and conducted bondholders' meeting or written procedure. Consequently, the actions of the majority in such matters could impact a bondholder's rights in a manner that would be undesirable for some of the bondholders.

Restrictions on the transferability of the Bonds

The Bonds have not been and will not be registered under the U.S. Securities Act of 1933, as amended, or any U.S. state securities laws. Subject to certain exemptions, a holder of the Bonds may not offer or sell the Bonds in the United States. The Issuer has not undertaken to register the Bonds under the U.S. Securities Act or any U.S. state securities laws or to affect any exchange offer for the Bonds in the future. Furthermore, the Issuer has not registered the Bonds under any other country's securities laws. It is each potential investor's obligation to ensure that the offers and sales of Bonds comply with all applicable securities laws. Due to these restrictions, there is a risk that a bondholder cannot sell its Bonds as desired.

Risks relating to the clearing and settlement in Euroclear's book-entry system

The Bonds are affiliated to Euroclear's account-based system, and no physical notes will be issued. Clearing and settlement relating to the Bonds is carried out within Euroclear's book-entry system as well as payment of interest and repayment of the principal. Investors are therefore dependent on the functionality of Euroclear's account-based system and any problems thereof could have an adverse effect on the payment of interest and repayment of principal under the Bonds.

Amended or new legislation

This document and the Terms and Conditions are based on Swedish law in force at the date of the issuance of the Bonds. There is a risk that amended or new legislation and administrative practices may adversely affect the investor's ability to receive payment under the Terms and Conditions.

Conflict of interests

The Sole Bookrunner may in the future engage in investment banking and/or commercial banking or other services for the Group in the ordinary course of business. Accordingly, conflicts of interest may exist or may arise as a result of the Sole Bookrunner having previously engaged, or will in the future engage, in transactions with other parties, having multiple roles or carrying out other transactions for third parties with conflicting interests.

Business and operations

Overview

The Group develops apartments and works with different types of ownership, including rental and tenant-owned apartments, hotels, residential care facilities, and student housing. The Group's business model is based on securing cost coverage at an early stage in its projects. The Group uses forward funding as a business model in a majority of projects.

The Group works to eliminate risk by:

- Securing income to a large extent before taking on larger financial commitments.
- Setting production costs at an early stage.
- Running the projects with extensive purchaser competence.
- Creating conditions for growth by focusing on long-term goals. This applies to the Group's relationship with both customers and contractors as well as the relationship with own employees.

The Group is only investing in attractive locations with good transportation alternatives in Swedish growth areas, where there is a strong demand and good market potential for new apartments.

Organisation and resources

In order to ensure that the projects maintain a high level of quality, the Group steers and manages all of its projects internally. However, the Group does not have its own building operations. Production is outsourced to contractors at a fixed price in the form of turnkey contracts. This allows for fewer resources, both financially and operationally.

Customers must often decide to invest in a project while it is still in the drawing phase. The Group must therefore dedicate extensive resources to visualise the end result of the completed project in terms of shape, design, architecture and functions. A good overview of the project and the features and value of the apartment are important for keeping customers satisfied. In addition, the Group must also direct a significant amount of resources to marketing and sales.

Projects and development

Project Categories

The end customer in tenant-owned apartment projects is the tenant-owner association and the individuals who have purchased the apartments. The size of a tenant-owned apartment project is determined by how quickly the apartments can be sold on the local market, how much capital is tied up by the project and the project possibilities at the given point in time. The Group prefers to implement projects in a single phase of around 100 apartments.

In the Group's tenant-owned apartment projects, the Group does not start construction until it has achieved cost coverage when the tenant-owner association has signed binding agreements with end customers for the sale of a certain number of apartments.

The Group has an appointed manager for each tenant-owned apartment project who is tasked with maintaining a high level of service with regard to the tenant-owner association and the end customers and ensuring a high level of delivery quality.

In rental apartment and hotel projects, the Group's end customer is the institution that has acquired the rental property. In order to decrease the need for funding and the risk in the rental and hotel projects, the Group sells the project before production begins. The Group works closely with long-term, institutional owners, which are not as sensitive to the economic cycle as many other buyers. This is to ensure that the projects can be sold as early as possible in the development phase.

Financing

The properties owned by the Group are developed as rental apartments, hotels, residential care facilities, and student housing and are sold at an early stage to major Swedish institutions. Before production is started on the project, a final property owner shall have signed a binding purchase agreement with the Group, and this buyer thus finances the project on a continual basis during production through "forward funding".

This normally entails that the Group regains the capital it invested already at the point when the buyer enters into the project, but the Group's profit is received at the completion of the project.

In the tenant-owned apartment projects the Group ultimately target individuals. The Group's policy in respect of these types of projects is that binding agreements covering the Group's expenses shall be entered into before the project starts.

In conjunction with signing the preliminary agreement, the tenant-owner pays a deposit of approximately SEK 50,000–100,000. The Group receives ten (10) per cent. of the final purchase price three (3) to six (6) months before occupancy. The final payment is made upon occupancy.

Development process

The Group has an organisation that consists of staff members who work exclusively with the analysis and acquisition of new projects. When acquiring properties, the Group analyses a project using fundamental assessments of demand, rent levels, housing prices, production costs, financing and risks. This analysis is conducted both in-house and in cooperation with external experts.

Work starts as early as in the acquisition phase to develop an attractive concept that suits the specific location and utilises its potential to the extent possible. The Group also strives to determine at an early stage how to design the project. This is to ensure a more accurate economic assessment.

During local planning processes, the Group aims to extract as large of an implementable volume as possible without sacrificing quality. The Group also strives to make the local planning as flexible as possible in order to develop the best possible product. The Group places particular importance on the entrances, stairwells, halls, courtyards and other shared spaces.

Environmental and sustainability aspects are important in the project, and the Group strives to meet the requirements for environmental certification. The Group is particular about its choice of material and suppliers in order to meet or exceed today's strict environmental, energy and sustainability requirements.

The Group's production process aims to identify any faults and deficiencies early in the process. The Group places considerable importance on the apartments being unencumbered by inspection comments at occupancy. Further, the Group appoints a customer coordinator in its tenant-owned apartment projects who assists the tenant-owner association and the end customer with the aim of identifying and rectifying faults at an early stage. In rental projects, the company's project manager ensures that the apartments meet the quality and standard that the parties have agreed upon.

Conflicts of interest within administrative, management and control bodies

All of the board members and all of the members of the management, except for Christina Hambäck, holds shares or warrants in the Issuer and, thus, have a private interest in the Issuer which may conflict with the interest of the Issuer. The members of the board of directors and the management may serve as directors or officers of other companies or have significant shareholdings in other companies and, to the extent that such other companies may participate in ventures in which the Issuer may participate, the members of the board of directors or the management may have a conflict of interest in negotiating and concluding terms respecting the extent of such participation. In the event that such a conflict of interest arises at a board meeting of the Issuer, a board member which has such a conflict will abstain from voting for or against the approval of such participation, or the terms of such participation.

As evidenced under the section Description of the Group, subheading Share capital and ownership structure, the chairman Fredrik Holmström has a controlling interest in the Group. The board member Andreas Rutili has a minority holding constituting approximately 7.74 per cent. of the shares. Furthermore, Fredrik Tibell (board member) is regularly hired as a consultant for the Group. The Issuer has also entered into consultancy agreements with the main shareholder, Fredrik Holmström's company F. Holmström Fastigheter AB, relating to property management regarding certain real estates and advisory services in certain real estate transactions. Fredrik Lidjan (CEO) has, through a company wholly-owned by him, Fredrik Lidjan AB, entered into profit distribution agreements regarding the mediation of projects with respect to seven properties.

The Issuer has not taken any specific measures to ensure that the majority shareholder does not abuse its control. However, the rules concerning the protection of minority shareholders contained in the Swedish Companies Act (2005:551) constitute protection against potential abuse by a majority shareholder of its control over a company. Nasdaq Stockholm's rules will also apply if the application for the listing of the bonds on the corporate bond list of Nasdaq Stockholm is approved. The Company also applies the Swedish Code of Corporate Governance.

Interest of natural and legal persons involved in the issue

The Sole Bookrunner and/or its affiliates have engaged in, and may in the future engage in, investment banking and/or commercial banking or other services for the Issuer and the Group in the ordinary course of business. Accordingly, conflicts of interest may exist or may arise as a result of the Sole Bookrunner and/or its affiliates having previously engaged, or engaging in future, in transactions with other parties, having multiple roles or carrying out other transactions for third parties with conflicting interests.

In other cases, payments will be transferred by the CSD to the Bondholder at the address registered with the CSD on the Record Date. Should the CSD, due to a delay on behalf of the Issuer or some other obstacle, not be able to effect the payment of amounts according to the aforesaid, the Issuer shall procure that such amounts are paid to the relevant Bondholder being registered as such on the relevant Record Date as soon as possible after such obstacle has been removed.

- (d) If payment or repayment is made in accordance with this Clause 7, the Issuer and the CSD shall be deemed to have fulfilled their obligation to pay, irrespective of whether such payment was made to a person not entitled to receive such amount, unless the Issuer or the CSD (as applicable) was aware of that the payment was being made to a person not entitled to receive such amount.

8. Interest

- (a) Each Initial Bond carries Interest at the Interest Rate applied to the Outstanding Nominal Amount from (but excluding) the First Issue Date up to (and including) the relevant Redemption Date. Any Subsequent Bond will carry Interest at the Interest Rate applied to the Outstanding Nominal Amount from (but excluding) the Interest Payment Date falling immediately prior to its issuance (or the First Issue Date if there is no such Interest Payment Date) up to (and including) the relevant Redemption Date.
- (b) Interest accrues during an Interest Period. Payment of Interest in respect of the Bonds shall be made to the Bondholders on each Interest Payment Date for the preceding Interest Period.

Accrued default interest shall not be capitalised. No default interest shall accrue where the failure to pay was solely attributable to the Agent or the CSD, in which case the Interest Rate shall apply instead.

9. Redemption and Repurchase of the Bonds

- (d) The provisions in this Clause 24 apply unless they are inconsistent with the provisions of the Financial Instruments Accounts Act which provisions shall take precedence.
